THIS BOOK IS DEDICATED TO people in need, with the hope that as long as there is finances coming in from my books as a writer to invest in those that are willing to go forward in peace, and hopefully reach as much as possible hiv/aids patients worldwide foodwise. We are on this small planet to look after each other, Meaning helping each other, Meaning do something to help one another, Meaning at least try to do something to prevent other people to get into situation, we can stop by caring. You can make a difference in your own family to prevent HIV/AIDS. Get your status and make others aware of HIV/AIDS in your town. I can't end this book, because this is only the beginning of my story I have to tell . . . . "HITCH

HIKER''!!!!

Object Lessons is a series of short, beautifully designed books about the hidden lives of ordinary things. "Nothing's bulletproof," the salesman said. "The thing's only bullet resistant." The New York Times journalist Kenneth R. Rosen had just purchased his first bulletproof vest and was headed off on assignment. He was travelling into Mosul, Iraq, when he realized that the idea of a bulletproof vest is more effective than the vest itself. From its very inception, poly-paraphenylene terephthalamide, or Kevlar, was meant for tires. Its humble roots and mundane applications are often lost, as it is now synonymous with body armor, war zones, and domestic terrorism. What Rosen learned through intimate use of his vest was that it acts as a metaphor for all the precautions we take toward digital, physical, and social security. Bulletproof Vest is at once an introspective journey into the properties and precisions of a bulletproof vest on a molecular level and on the world stage. It's also an ode to living precariously, an open letter that defends the notion that life is worth the risk. A portion of the author's proceeds will be donated to RISC, a nonprofit that provides emergency medical training to freelance conflict journalists. For more information, go to www.risctraining.org. Object Lessons is published in partnership with an essay series in the The Atlantic.
